Data Flow Overview

Project Summary

Built an automated event capacity planning tool (decision-support system) that centralized scheduling into an operational calendar with individual event-level pages. The tool eliminated manual tracking and coordination, enabling planning, booking decisions, and leadership oversight across approximately $500K in department activity.

- Department-level dataset consolidating event timing and availability into a scheduling view
- Designed to maintain consistent event ordering during high-volume, overlapping scheduling
- Status logic supports automated updates with controlled manual overrides, defaulting to automation with manual intervention reserved for exceptions

- Monthly calendar displaying scheduled events by day and time
- Each event shows remaining booking capacity at a glance
- Event entries include direct hyperlinks to associated event pages for quick access

- Event pages are created from a standardized template and auto-populate using an ID number
- Centralizes finalized event details, reservations, and remaining capacity in a single operational view
- Supports quick navigation to the calendar and other events scheduled that day
